Say you have run already input the command java Main. Now you will regard a menu of options for things you may want to do with the System.

If you want to change the conference, select 1 from Main Menu as seen on the left.

Once you have selected 1, you will be given a new menu specific to conference for actions you can take with a conference.

If you want to make a new conference, now select 1 as shown on the left.

You will then be prompted to input different aspects of the conference. Once you have completed all required fields, a message noting your success will be printed.

User Guide - Conference Management System

Now, if you would like to display all of the conferences that the system has stored, you would select 2 from the Conference Menu. This will display every conference currently stored as shown below.

On the other hand, if you want to edit the aspects of a conference, you can enter 3 from the Conference Menu. This will then open Conference Update Options. Once that is open, you can enter the number corresponding to the aspect you want to change. For example, this example below shows this process as applied to editing the conference title.
